

← Click here to go back to the main navigation page.

Help/Support & Releases

As perfect and magnificent as Batocera is, there will be times where things go wrong and you'll need to troubleshoot certain issues. This is for that.

The first thing to check is the page for the particular system you're having trouble with, as that will usually inform you of any common errors and prerequisite files you'll need for it:

- Systems overview

If you're needing to look into older/legacy versions of Batocera for your hardware, or need to upgrade to a beta build to fix a particular nasty bug:

- Current/previous/beta releases
- Manually upgrade/downgrade Batocera

When deciding to ask for help, the first page to check is the general troubleshooting page. It will tell you how to get your log files, which can help the support team help you better:

- Troubleshooting

For more general troubleshooting like audio issues, screen issues, controllers not working correctly, etc.:

- Display issues and resolution changes
- Audio issues
- Diagnose joystick issues

If you're certain it's an issue with Batocera and would like to provide a helpful issue report:

- Report an issue

From:

<https://www.wiki.batocera.org/> - Batocera.linux - Wiki

Permanent link:

<https://www.wiki.batocera.org/support?rev=1642158928>

Last update: 2022/01/14 11:15

